

I am against the relaxing of the ownership rules which will further consolidate our media into a small number of corporations. The law which has allowed consolidation of ownership for the radio market is an excellent example of just how bad of an idea this is. We need media that is owned by the biggest variety of people with the biggest variety of viewpoints in order to keep our democracy strong. I also can't believe that a major ruling change of this sort was not given adequate time for public comment and that pleas to lengthen the time for debate have been ignored - shame on you trying to ramrod this through!
